DAY-BY-DAY ITINERARY

DAY 1
23 May

Arrival in Pokhara

Altitude: 820m · Hotel stay · No trekking

Arrive in Pokhara — Nepal's lakeside adventure capital nestled against the backdrop of the Annapurna range. Check in to your hotel by Phewa Lake. The evening begins with a detailed trek briefing covering the route, safety protocols, gear check, and acclimatization strategy. This is also your opportunity to get familiar with the team and ask any questions before the journey begins.

- Hotel in Pokhara
- Trek briefing & gear check

DAY 2
24 May

Drive to Ghandruk → Trek to Komrung

Drive: ~2 hrs · Trek: 3.5 km, 3 hrs · Altitude: 2,175m

An early morning drive from Pokhara takes you through the Modi Khola valley to Ghandruk (2,000m) — one of the largest Gurung villages in Nepal. After a brief orientation, you begin the first steps of the trek, descending through terraced farmland and crossing suspension bridges before arriving at Komrung. The views of Annapurna South and Hiunchuli begin to reveal themselves as you gain altitude.

- Drive from Pokhara
- First Himalayan views

DAY 3
25 May

Komrung → Chhumrung

Distance: 8.5 km · Duration: 6 hrs · Altitude: 2,178m

Today's trail winds through dense rhododendron forests — in full pink and red bloom in May — before arriving at Chhumrung, a beautiful Gurung village perched on a ridge above the Modi Khola valley. This is one of the most culturally rich stops on the trek, with stone-paved paths, traditional architecture, and views of Machhapuchhre (Fishtail) that will stop you in your tracks. A moderately challenging day that rewards every step.

- Rhododendrons in full bloom
- Gurung village culture

DAY 4
26 May

Chhumrung → Bamboo

Distance: 9.5 km · Duration: 5–6 hrs · Altitude: 2,360m

From Chhumrung, you descend steeply to the Chhomrong Khola and then climb back up through dense sub-tropical forest. The trail enters the Annapurna Conservation Area, flanked by towering bamboo groves, ferns, and moss-covered trees. The sound of the Modi Khola river fills the valley below. Bamboo is a quiet, peaceful settlement that marks the official entry into the Annapurna Sanctuary — the air noticeably cooler and crisper.

DAY 5
27 May

Bamboo → Deurali

Distance: 8 km · Duration: 6–7 hrs · Altitude: 3,200m

One of the most dramatic days of the trek. The trail climbs steadily alongside the Modi Khola, passing through Dovan (2,505m) and Himalaya Hotel (2,900m) — the vegetation gradually giving way to alpine scrub as you gain altitude. You begin to cross the first snow patches and the walls of the Sanctuary close in around you. Waterfalls cascade from either side of the valley. Deurali is the last village before the alpine zone — the mountains feel very close here.

DAY 6
28 May

Deurali → Annapurna Base Camp

★ SUMMIT DAY

Distance: 9.5 km · Duration: 6–7 hrs · Altitude: 4,130m

The day everything has been building toward. From Deurali you climb steadily, crossing the Modi Khola twice, passing through the eerie and beautiful Machhapuchhre Base Camp (3,700m) with its stunning close-up view of Fishtail peak. The final push to ABC is a gradual walk across a glacial moraine surrounded by an 8,000m amphitheatre. Annapurna I (8,091m), Annapurna South, Gangapurna, Khangsar Kang, Hiunchuli — all towering above you in a complete 360° ring. This is the destination.

DAY 7
29 May

ABC → Dovan

Distance: 11.5 km · Duration: 7–8 hrs · Altitude: 2,500m

Rise before dawn for the golden hour at base camp — Annapurna I glowing orange in the first light is one of the finest sunrises you will ever witness. After soaking it in, the descent begins. You retrace the route down through MBC, Deurali, and Himalaya Hotel, arriving at Dovan by mid-afternoon. The descent is long but the views are just as magnificent in reverse — the Sanctuary slowly releasing you back into the world below.

DAY 8
30 May

Dovan → Jhinu Danda

Distance: 9.5 km · Duration: 6–7 hrs · Altitude: 1,780m

Continuing the descent through Bamboo and then up the stone steps through Chhomrong village, before dropping down to Jhinu Danda beside the Modi Khola. The reward at the end of today is the famous Jhinu natural hot springs — geothermal pools right next to the glacial river. After six days on your feet, slipping into those warm waters with mountain views above is genuinely one of the best feelings on Earth.

DAY 10
1 Jun

Pokhara → Kathmandu

Flight: 25 min · or Tourist Bus: 7–8 hrs

A free morning to explore Pokhara — visit the International Mountain Museum, stroll along the lake, or simply rest. Afternoon travel to Kathmandu by flight (recommended, 25 min) or tourist bus (7–8 hrs). On arrival in Kathmandu, check in to your hotel. The evening is free to explore Thamel, pick up souvenirs, or rest before your onward journey.

-  Flight or bus to Kathmandu
-  Thamel, Kathmandu

DAY 11
2 Jun

Departure — Kathmandu to Bangalore

Transfer to Tribhuvan International Airport

Check out and transfer to the airport for your return flight to Bangalore. Depending on your departure time, a final morning may be available for last-minute exploration or shopping in Thamel. The memories of Annapurna, the mountains, the trail, the people — those you carry home with you.

-  Departure — Kathmandu to Bangalore

IMPORTANT NOTES

- Itinerary is subject to change due to weather, trail conditions, or group pace — your safety always comes first.
- Flight Kathmandu–Pokhara is recommended over bus; book in advance for May departure dates.
- Acclimatization days are built in — do not skip them. Those rest days are survival, not leisure.
- Pack under 10kg in your daypack. Your porter carries the main bag, but your body carries the altitude.
- Travel insurance covering emergency evacuation up to 5,000m is mandatory for this trek.
